BUDGET PLAN ON MANAGEMENT

Introduction to Budget Planning

Budget planning refers to the process of estimating income and expenses for a specific period in order to manage money effectively. It helps individuals allocate resources wisely and avoid unnecessary spending. When planning a trip, budgeting becomes very important because travel involves several expenses such as transportation, accommodation, food, and sightseeing. Without proper budgeting, expenses may exceed the planned amount. This project presents a minimal and affordable budget plan for a trip to Meghalaya while ensuring proper money management.

About Meghalaya

Meghalaya is a beautiful state located in Northeast India and is known for its natural beauty, waterfalls, hills, and living root bridges. Popular tourist destinations include Shillong, Cherrapunji, and Dawki. In this scenario, a group of two friends plan a 3-day budget trip to Meghalaya. The main objective of the trip is to explore nature while maintaining a low-cost travel plan. The budget focuses on economical travel, affordable accommodation, and basic daily expenses.

Importance of Budget Planning for Travel

Budget planning helps travelers control their expenses and avoid financial stress during a trip

.It allows proper allocation of money for transportation, food, accommodation, and sightseeing. It also ensures that travelers do not overspend and are prepared for unexpected expenses.

Through budgeting, travelers can enjoy their trip comfortably while staying within their financial limits.

Transportation Budget

Transportation is usually the largest expense in travel planning. In this scenario, the travelers choose economical travel options such as train and shared taxi services. The estimated round-trip travel cost from Chennai to Guwahati is approximately INR 5,000 per person when booked in advance using sleeper class or economy travel options. Local transportation within Meghalaya, including shared taxis and buses, is estimated at INR 1,500 per person for the entire trip. Therefore, the total transportation budget for one person is approximately INR 6,500.

Accommodation Budget

Accommodation plays an important role in travel expenses. For a low-budget trip, travelers can choose budget hotels, hostels, or guesthouses. In Meghalaya, budget accommodations are available for approximately INR 800 to INR 1,000 per night. For a three-day trip, the total accommodation cost would be around INR 3,000 per person if the room is shared between two travelers. Choosing economical stays helps reduce travel costs while still ensuring comfort and safety.

Food and Daily Expenses

Food expenses can be controlled by choosing local restaurants and simple meals instead of expensive cafes. The average daily food expense is estimated at INR 500 per person, which includes breakfast, lunch, and dinner. For three days, the total food expense will be approximately INR 1,500 per person. Additional daily expenses such as snacks, water, and small purchases may cost around INR 500 during the trip.

Total Budget Estimate

Based on the estimated expenses, the total budget for one person includes transportation, accommodation, food, and miscellaneous expenses. Transportation expenses are estimated at INR 6,500. Accommodation expenses are approximately INR 3,000. Food and daily expenses are estimated at INR 2,000. Therefore, the total estimated budget for one person for the trip is approximately INR 11,500. This budget ensures a comfortable yet economical travel experience.

Conclusion

Budget planning is an essential part of financial management, especially when organizing trips and personal activities. It helps individuals manage their income and expenses effectively. This budget plan for a trip to Meghalaya demonstrates how proper financial planning can help travelers enjoy a memorable trip while keeping expenses under control. By choosing affordable transportation, budget accommodation, and simple food options, travelers can successfully manage their finances and experience a wonderful journey without overspending.
